Washington Roundup

It is believed in Washington today that powerful units of the Pacific fleet may be enroute to the Pacific for a major mission against Japan's strongholds. This possibility is raised by the navy's continued silence on Tokyo reports of an American raid on Marcus Island.

Most of the news is from Capitol Hill, however, where Sen. Reynolds (D-N.C.), chairman of the senate military affairs committee, promises a showdown on "work or fight," and draft labor legislation within the next few weeks. Despite appeals of military and naval leaders for stronger legislation to solve the manpower problem, Reynolds says he opposes such steps and a committee canvass indicates the measures will be scrapped.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) is opening a fight before a senate judiciary subcommittee for enactment of legislation requiring American firms to register international agreements with the justice department. On the other side of the hill, a special house committee is plowing further into the legalistic background of the Montgomery Ward plant seizure. It is emphasized that the house probe will be unaffected by the new seizure of Hummer manufacturing division at Springfield, Ill., a Montgomery Ward subsidiary.

From other quarters it is revealed the Swedish government has told American officials it fears a Nazi invasion if Sweden should comply with allied demands to stop shipment of ball bearings to Germany. This argument is not impressive in allied councils which point out that Germany cannot afford to undertake a new offensive operation in the face of the forthcoming invasion.

Anzio Beachhead Forces Attack, Is German Report

Assert Offensive Is Started In Drive To Join With Main Battlefront

NO CONFIRMATION GIVEN BY ALLIES (BULLETIN)

LONDON, May 23.—Official German quarters indicated today that Fifth Army Forces in the Anzio beachhead just south of Rome had loosed an expected offensive to join forces with Allied forces driving northward on the main battlefront in Italy.

Strong attacks by Allied infantry and tank forces in the beachhead were reported by the German high command.

No Allied Confirmation While the report lacked confirmation from any Allied source, observers pointed out that if later proved true, the Axis assertion would mean that the United Nations forces have struck on both flanks of the beachhead perimeter.

The Cisterna-Littoria sector named by the Nazis as one of those in which fighting took place, is on the eastern end of the Allied line. Littoria itself is some 20 miles from the northern spearhead of the Fifth army's main group.

Aprilia, the second area named as an attack zone by the Germans, is on the beachhead's northern flank along the main road from Nettuno to Rome.

The attacks, according to a broad-

Reveal Murder Of 270 Hostages By Nazi Troops

Soviet Newspaper Says 20 Shot In Village Every Time Nazi Met With 'Accident'

By NATALIA RENE (U.S.S.R. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, May 23.—The Soviet newspaper "Red Fleet" revealed today the murder of 270 Russian citizens in the small Dniestr river village of Ribnitz.

Russian Guards Major L. Rozov reported the murders in the "Red Fleet" dispatch. German forces in Ribnitz, on the left bank of the Dniestr, held as hostages about 300 Russian citizens—workers, teachers and peasants.

Whenever any "accident" befell a soldier or officer of the German or Romanian army in the surrounding area, 20 of the hostages were shot and their bodies thrown in the Dniestr.

Twenty new hostages would be taken to replace those executed. Before the advancing red army reached Ribnitz, the Germans and Romanians tried to remove the hostages to Beltzi. It was too late, Beltzi had fallen to the red army.

The commander of the Ribnitz prison, a Romanian named Vultza, and a group of gendarmes went first into the women's cells and then through the entire prison, shooting the hostages.

Monsoons Big Factor In Burma Campaign

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIG (Written Especially For I. N. S.)

Most important news from the critical India-Burma front, where Allied forces battle to open China's Burma road and end the Japanese threat to India, is the arrival of the first showers of the monsoon rains chronicled this morning's dispatches. From the time the Mongol emperors of China sent their armies to conquer Burma nearly 1,000 years ago, these storms have put an end to fighting for from three to five months each year in the territories bordering the Indian Ocean.

With American, Chinese and British forces in the India-Burma theater apparently on the verge of victories of great strategic significance, the matter of the beginning of the rains becomes the most important unknown quantity in the United Nations campaign on the entire East Indian front.

Sometimes the storms start with a few heavy showers, then the sky clears for as much as a couple of weeks and the ground grows dry and firm for a time before the main downpour starts. During other seasons the heavens open up in earnest from the beginning of the rainy period, dumping tons of water on every square yard of ground and rendering travel over trails and roads next to impossible.

With Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's jungle fighters seemingly on the verge of a breakthrough, the

Destroy 213 Jap Planes In Burma In Past 10 Weeks

KANDY, Ceylon, May 23.—A total of 213 Japanese aircraft were destroyed during the past 10 weeks by the Allies in the Burma-India theater, headquarters of the south-east Asia command revealed today.

The planes were lost by the Japs in efforts to hold airfields in Burma to support Nipponese troops fighting in Manipur state, India, and attempts to harass Allied ground forces slashing at Japanese communications from Myitkyna to Mandalay.

The bag of enemy craft was obtained by fighter planes of the Third Tactical Air Force of the eastern area command. The official announcement said possibly another 31 Jap planes had been destroyed in addition to the 213 and more than 58 others were damaged.

One Allied force, under command of Col. Henry Kinnison, attacked north of the railroad at Myitkyna in an effort to work its way into the enemy-held town. They advanced 1,500 yards from the north landing strip in a drive against the junction of the Mogauing and Fort Hertz roads. Success in the action will block Jap lines of communications north and south of Myitkyna.

The Chinese already have cut the Myitkyna-Mogauing road five miles from the town. Fierce, close-quarter street fighting raged inside Myitkyna between Allied troops and the Japanese defenders.

Tables Turned On German Force

March Through Tunnel To Surprise Yanks, But Get Fatal Surprise Themselves

By GRAHAM HOVEY (U.S.S.R. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN FIFTH Army assaulting Terracina, May 23.—The German high command had an attack of tunnel trouble today which cost them about a battalion of panzer grenadiers.

The tunnel in question, called Bear Mountain tunnel, runs for more than four miles through the Monte Romano Mass from a point south of Casa Pellegrini to a point west of Terracina.

Major George D. Wadsworth, of Sterling, Ill., told the story. The German command, desperate to stop the advancing Americans, sent a battalion of panzer grenadiers from the 29th Division into the tunnel. These fresh troops, just brought from Rome, were scheduled to pull an attack on the American flank from the east portal of the tunnel.

Many Are Killed Instead of pulling the surprise attack, the Germans walked out of the tunnel entrance practically into the arms of "Morgue" raiders. The American troops had marched a long distance over the mountains to command that tunnel entrance, and they gave the Germans a warm reception as they emerged into daylight.

For the German command it was like putting money down a rat-hole. The American raiders killed a good percentage of the panzer troops, took about 200 prisoners, and chased the rest back over the hills.

An estimated 1,750 American planes took part in the strikes against targets in western Germany.

NAPLES, May 23.—(INS)—Latest offensive thrusts by the Fifth and Eighth armies in Italy were supported by assaults of heavy Allied bombers against German troop concentrations and military installations, headquarters of the Mediterranean Air Force reported today.

Heavy bombers smashed at installations in Avezzano and Valmontone and also hit west coast supply lines and rail yards. Despite a heavy overcast, fighters and fighter bombers pounded the enemy between Rome and the battlefront.

Weather conditions cancelled all medium bomber operations except a Mitchell strike on Scave. During the operations one German plane was destroyed. Five Allied aircraft are missing from the 2,150 sorties flown.

Rotarians Hear British Consul

R. M. Galbraith Of Pittsburgh Consular Office Reviews Britain And War Effort

HONOR STUDENTS GUEST OF CLUB

One of the most interesting addresses of the year was heard by members of the New Castle Rotary club in connection with their noon luncheon meeting Monday at The Castleton, when the honor students of the current graduating class at the senior high school were guests. Mr. Galbraith told about the events which led up to the present war and stated that for too long a time Britain had been assigned the unpleasant task of policing Europe. At no time subsequent to the war, however, had Britain a pact with any European nation until in 1939 they signed a pact with Poland. He said they were accused of selling the Czechoslovak lands the river by that they had never "ad a mutual aggression pact with them."

Not Prepared Britain was not prepared for the war, he admitted, and all nations seemed to have a lack of understanding of the issues involved. It was not until 1940 that the British people began to realize that they were at war. Few felt that France would collapse as soon and completely as they did.

The crisis brought Winston Churchill to the front, and England girded for the supreme war effort that they have put forth since that time. Boys and girls of the age of 14 and 15 years went to work and are working 60 and 70 hours a week.

Report Efforts To Link Armies Now Under Way

Swiss Reports Indicate Initial Successes Being Scored In Offensive

MAIN ATTACK IS MAKING PROGRESS

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN (U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)

NAPLES, May 23.—Allied forces at the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead today opened a general attack against German positions, timed in with fresh advances on the Fifth and Eighth Army fronts inside fortifications of the Adolf Hitler line.

An official statement said: "The battle of Italy has started upon a new phase."

"An attack by the Allied Fifth Army beachhead force started early this morning in conjunction with an attack by the Eighth Army against the Hitler line and continued action by the Fifth Army in the coastal sectors."

"No details of the progress of the day's fighting are yet available."

U. S. Air Forces Spearhead All Big Offensives

CHICAGO, May 23.—(INS)—The U. S. Army Air Forces are in the spearhead of all the decisive offensives now in progress. Gen. H. H. Arnold, American Air Force supreme commander, maintained today.

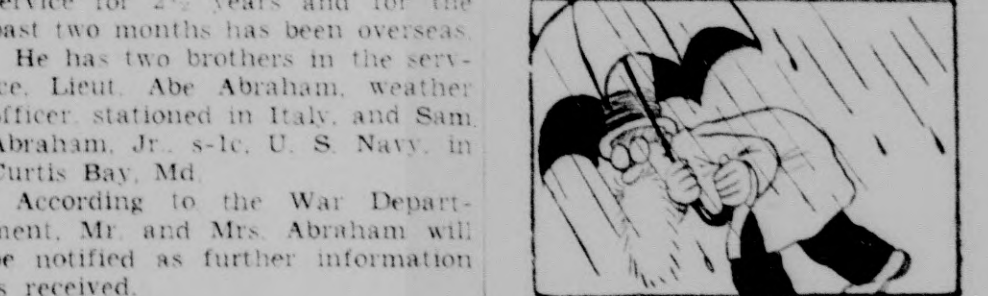

Gen. Arnold in an address before the Economic club in Chicago recounted that air power had defended the coast of the United States, protected coastal cities and coastwise shipping, and was a decisive factor in clearing our shores of the submarine menace.

He led up to the terrific hammering of German war industries and the invasion coast and said: "What is happening today in the skies over Europe is not as most people believe it to be a prelude to invasion."

"When a thousand bombers roar Germany we have an army on the wing. Over 10,000 men on their way to deal out death and destruction."

"Numerically, we send over the equivalent of an infantry division on our daily routine missions."

MONSOONS BIG FACTOR IN BURMA CAMPAIGN

the point of taking beleaguered Myittha, chief Japanese base in northern Burma, a few days more of good weather becomes a matter of burning importance.

Would Cut Jap Communications

Myittha's fall would cut the communications of the entire Japanese army that is driving from Burma toward northern India and render its destruction certain. This would end the threat to Britain's vital Indian empire, probably for the duration of the war.

Not less important is the fact that Myittha's capture by Allied forces would render it possible for American engineers to drive the newly-built Leda road through territory beyond the reach of the Jap's forces to re-open land communications with China, isolated since 1942.

The reopening of communications might make the difference between life and death to sorely pressed free China, all-important in the war against Japan. So the anxiety with which American, Chinese and British troops commanders scan the skies to determine what kind of weather the next few weeks may bring can be imagined.

Delay Victories

In 1942, the Japanese advance after penetrating the Burma-India border, ceased when the rains came during the first week of May. Last year, both United Nations and Japanese forces were withdrawn from the jungles to permanent camps and bases in the cities before the monsoons began, which they did about May 15.

Meantime, the Allies have been reported as experimenting with measures that may render possible active fighting, at least on a limited scale during the present rains. The United Nations technique of furnishing supplies by air-transport offers considerable promise. Still the effect of the monsoon is likely to prove paralyzing. Victories that are not won within the next few weeks will probably have to wait until next fall.

Statements and opinions herein are private to the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the navy department.

Suits Are Filed Against 250 Here

State Insurance Department Moves To Settle Accounts Of Former Casualty And Insurance Co.

Before Alderman Edward D. Pritchard there have been entered some 250 suits to collect assessments from the former policyholders of the Keystone Indemnity Exchange of Philadelphia, a mutual casualty and automobile insurance company which folded up some ten years ago. The cases are filed by the Pennsylvania Insurance Department to liquidate the company and get its debts paid.

The suits ask for the payment of an amount equal to the assessments or premiums from 1929 to 1933, plus interest and costs, in some cases running as low as four or five dollars and in some cases rising as high as $250.

east and northeast, heading for Cisterna and Littoria to wipe out key points of German resistance and then join with Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander's troops battling their way through the northern reaches of the Adolf Hitler line.

The Swiss radio broadcast a report that the offensive was developing successfully in the direction of Littoria. Quoting a dispatch from Naples, the Swiss announcer said that Lake Fogliano, six kilometers inland from the coast, already had been reached.

Separated By Twenty Miles

Some 20 miles still separate the main Allied units in central Italy and the beachhead forces which for months have clung to an artillery raked triangle of land just west of the lateral highways and railway lines leading into Rome.

German sources reported Nazi execution of Pico on the main front, and although American setbacks at Terracina on the Tyrrhenian seacoast had not been overcome, there was every sign of a major dual thrust developing.

Only yesterday, German propagandists said Italy that Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring might withdraw his forces clear north to the Po River valley, abandoning Rome after one last stand in the Frosinone-Valmontone-Velletri area. This is the line that runs athwart the Alban hills, the last natural barrier before Rome itself.

There is little doubt from a military point of view that a successful Allied drive from the beachhead will greatly facilitate a general offensive against Rome which according to Allied commanders will be undertaken, with all the artillery and aircraft available, if the Nazis refuse to declare the capital an open city or surrender it without a fight.

A general breakthrough from the bridgehead might carve open the Apennian way itself, and in any case would flank the German defenses which still stand as a formidable obstacle on the way to the Eternal City.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NAPLES, May 23.—Allied armies in Italy smashed forward today against stiffened German resistance. The Eighth Army penetrating into the Hitler line defenses in the Liri valley and Americans of the Fifth Army moving ahead in a rapid drive on the coast which dominated the port of Terracina.

The Yank troops of Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark seized numerous important hill positions northwestward toward Sarno.

The mounting threat to the Hitler line caused Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring to pour in reserve troops and a number of tanks. The enemy counter-attack resulted in fierce battling among the entire front from the Liri valley to the Tyrrhenian sea coast.

Resistance Stiffens

Although resistance by the 12 German divisions confronting the Allies stiffened, forces of the Fifth and Eighth armies continued to move forward to take commanding heights within the penetrated Hitler defense line.

The advance by the Eighth Army into a section of the Hitler fortifications in the Liri valley resulted from strong infiltration thrusts.

The advances carried the Americans on the coastal sector to points 25 miles from where they began their all-out offensive on the Garigliano front and the French 20 miles beyond their original jumping off point.

The Allied ground offensive was given close support by strong forces of heavy bombers of the Mediterranean Air Force which hammered at Nazi troop concentrations, and military installations. Particularly heavy strikes were made at Avezzano and Valmontone.

Fighter-bombers and fighters also bombed and strafed the Germans from Rome southward to the battle area.

Drive Toward Mount Giove

American troops of the Fifth Army began a rapid drive toward Mount Giove, an important height overlooking the west coast port of Terracina and the coastal road.

On the Eighth Army front, at the northeast end of the fighting front, Allied forces probed to find weak spots in the Hitler line defenses.

Offensive thrusts in the Liri valley brought strong reaction from the German troops.

The probing thrusts after the Allies penetrated into the main system of Nazi defenses were supported by tank forces.

The Germans clung stubbornly to strong points in the town of Piedimonte, northeast anchor of the Hitler line, where troops of the Eighth Army, closing in from three sides, lightened their grip to force the Nazis from natural defense positions.

Polish troops who took Caserta have been fighting at Piedimonte for two days.

American troops with the Fifth Army occupied Mounts Copico, Autone, Calvo and Marino and mopped up remaining points of German resistance on those heights.

The conscription age for military service in Britain is now 51 years, he stated. Every tent, man called up in the different age groups is now sent into the coal mines, because of the critical need for coal above all things by the British.

When Russia got into the war in June, 1941, it gave Britain a breathing spell to prepare for future battles, and the entry of the United States into the conflict following the attack by the Japs at Pearl Harbor, now assures an Allied victory.

Out of a population of 45 million persons in the British Isles, 22 millions are mobilized.

Terrible Price

After four years of war, Mr. Galbraith stated that the people of Britain are conscious of the terrible price they have had to pay for resistance, and are also conscious of the intangible things they are fighting for.

From the ruins of the war he believes will arise a new order, and that the democratic nations of the world will retain the things they have been fighting for.

"I WAS CONSTIPATED FOR MANY YEARS!"

Now I'm "Regular" Every Morning!

Constipated? Then here's an unsolicited letter you'll want to read:

"I had troubled with common constipation for many years. Was taking laxatives and pills all the time, and feeling very weak and run down. I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN cereal. Now I have a regular, natural bowel movement every morning, which helps me feel my best." Mr. Samuel D. Black, 292 Kings Highway, Brooklyn, New York.

What is this seeming magic of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN? Science says it's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation — namely, lack of sufficient "cellulose" elements in the diet. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help the friendly colonic flora "huff up" and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out." It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find lasting relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Beaten Japs In The North

Street-by-street battle inside the long-held Jap base of Myitkya offers another grim reminder of the job the Allies have to do in Asia. The trapped Japs are not surrendering. But they are dying fast.

The steady advances of Chinese, American and British forces in North Burma, of which General Stilwell's drive has become the spearhead, exhibit a radically changed situation from the "hell of a licking" to use his own words—that General Stilwell suffered there two years ago.

Enemy troops in a futile last stand at Myitkya; others in hopeless retreat farther north; still others encircled in Kamaing, are the Japanese 16th Army, the conquerors of Singapore—the sleek, elite jungle fighters who swept away all British resistance in the four weeks after Pearl Harbor.

They're taking the beating now. But with the monsoon rains imminent—if they have not already begun—we cannot count upon early sweeping results from Stilwell's substantial victories.

To a striking extent the myth of Jap invincibility has again been disintegrated by his operations. Most serious enemy threats to Allied supply routes to China are being eased. And the probability of still more powerful thrusts against the Japanese everywhere in Burma, when the rainy season ends, can now be regarded as a virtual certainty.

With the highly favorable turn for the Allies in North Burma, it is to be hoped that at the first possible moment after the rains they will indeed strike from all directions to clear Burma from end to end of Japanese control and to open wide the "Back Door" into China for a flood of supplies that will confront the Japs at the "front door" with a fully equipped Chinese Army.

A War On Rats, Too

The United States Army has gone to war against rats—the four-legged kind, in case there is any confusion. The Army's School of Military and Tropical Medicine borrowed the Interior department's rat expert, William E. Ritter, to teach its officers rat control. And what he has to say about wiping out these long-tailed disease carriers applies equally to the species that wear swastikas or rising suns on their uniforms.

"Complete rat control is possible," says Mr. Ritter, "if enough time and energy are devoted to it."

"But," he adds, "getting rid of rats is only half the story; continued effort is necessary to keep them out"—which sounds like an admirable postwar policy.

And speaking of rodents, nothing will ever convince us that it wasn't just homing instinct that led the Japs to dig in on Kiska—which is one of the Rat Islands.

Resourcefulness Of U. S. Fighters

We accept without reservations repeated statements that man for man, the American youth is a better fighter than the German or the Jap, on the land, at sea, and in the air. The reason for this superiority is his proved ability to think and act for himself in situations not covered by the rule books.

This trait is what we call old-fashioned American initiative. We are not creatures of rote or rule. We are taught from childhood to think for ourselves. That's the reason an American "Seabee" sent ashore with his bulldozer to level ground for tank landings, became so annoyed at a Jap machine-gun nest that he raised the scraper on his machine, crushed the pillbox as he drove his cumbersome machine over it, trapping 12 Japs.

That same ability to think and act on a moment's notice was displayed by an American aviator in the Adriatic, after he had dropped a light bomb on a 5,000-ton German supply ship. The resultant fire didn't spread fast enough for the watchful Yankee, so he dived again and dropped his extra gasoline tank squarely on the small deck blaze, enveloping the entire ship in flames.

Both Germans and Japs, especially the latter, seem at a loss what to do when they can remember no instructions to follow. Not so the Americans. In situations without precedent they proceed to do the best they can with what they have at hand, and their unorthodox actions usually get results. And this is one of the reasons we are a nation great in peace as well as in war.

It Is Up To Us

As time goes on it is becoming more and more evident that the winning of the war against the Axis from now on is pretty much up to Uncle Sam, to be more specific, to the American people.

Before we got into the war many people had the comfortable feeling that it could be won by Allies with the material assistance of the United States. Even Prime Minister Churchill was credited with saying "give us the tools and we will finish the job." But it has become evident that American men as well as arms and other material are vitally necessary to an Allied victory.

For a time there were those who told us that a comparatively small force, highly mechanized, could do the trick without a big army from the United States. But it is now pretty generally realized that Germany cannot be defeated by a huge airforce alone. The experiences of the German bombardment of England are being repeated to an extent in the bombing of Central Europe. It is true that the terrific pounding that is being given Berlin and the industrialized cities of Germany is having the effect of slowing down mechanical production, but there is no evidence yet that it has broken the morale of the people.

So despite the proponents of new mechanized warfare it is evident that huge armies are still necessary to win wars against an efficient foe. That is why the selective service calls have been so far reaching in the United States. Russia is doing a big job of driving back the enemy on the eastern front. But the west wall is still intact and big armies will be necessary to crack it. Great Britain by no means has enough men. That is why it is pretty much up to us as we enter the final phase of the war.

There is no question but that we are going to win. The Nazis themselves would have to admit this if they dared to be frank with themselves. But we must realize that our supreme effort is now required. It is an effort which must be made not alone by our brave forces on land and sea and in the air but by the people back home who must put forth every effort to support the men in the service.

This has at last become an all-out war. We are prepared for it and will go ahead on the road that leads to victory. And when that goal of victory is reached it will have been learned that the United States has played the decisive role.

"Ma" Perkins urges that wage controls end with the war. Ending of controls may be one method of assuring that wages don't end.

Five hundred thousand pictures have been taken of European territory about to be invaded. Hitler can have few secrets by now.

Air Power Question

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The final answer to the air power debate may not come out of this war. Talking with the men directing our air offensive, I've tried to get an idea of just what the picture is today.

It is important to know, if only because of the invasion the objective is likely to change abruptly. Then the mass attacks on Germany will be drastically curtailed because the planes will be needed for co-ordination with that tremendous push.

To get some idea of the relative value of air power, you have to look at a little recent history. What most of us have realized is that the air attack on Germany got going in full strength only fairly recently.

Was In Gloomy Mood

In England last summer, I remember talking with Air Marshal Sir Arthur Travers Harris. Harris, one of the firm believers in the capacity of air power to undermine a nation's resistance and one of the picture-guy soldiers of this war, was in a gloomy mood.

He made no secret of the reasons for his gloom. At the Casablanca conference, a firm commitment had been made to build up the eighth air force to a strength that would enable it to soften up Germany for a final blow. Perhaps even to destroy the German will to resistance, although the words set down on paper at Casablanca were tempered with caution.

To Harris, to General H. Arnold, chief of our own air forces, and to Lieutenant General Ira C. Eaker, then in command of our air force in Britain, it looked like a green light. They saw ahead the chance to test their convictions in an all-out attack on Hitler's Reich.

High hopes were quickened, especially because it came after so many disappointments. Eaker and six other officers had arrived in England in January of 1942 to direct our bombing units there. They had a difficult pioneering job to do, starting from scratch with the British politely skeptical of the value of daylight bombing.

The spunk and heroism of those pioneers, on the ground and in the air, can hardly be exaggerated. It was building toward something big. They all felt that.

Then came the North African invasion. Crack squadrons were pulled out of England for North Africa. The eighth air force was pretty low on those deprivations.

What Harris was saying gloomily last summer was that while the decision had been reached to build air power in Britain to minimum strength for softening Germany, the planes simply were not forthcoming. And he could see no signs that they were about to come.

It was a time, of course, when the pill between the European war and the Pacific war was at its acute. Those who felt passionately of the spring of 1943 that we could not allow Japan to sit unmolested and exploit her gains won their point. Air power and sea power were being built up in the Pacific.

In the late summer and early fall of '43 the planes began to reach England. Not, however, until February of this year was the minimum number necessary to do the job actually in operation over Europe.

Mass Raids Start
That is the little known fact which has to be taken into account in any appraisal of the ultimate success or failure of air power. With minimum strength finally achieved, the mass raids of recent weeks became possible. New devices had made accuracy bombing over clouds possible and the eighth force executed 16 missions in February, the worst month of the year.

But as Germany failed to crack in the winter of 1943-44, after our efforts superimposed on the long heroic campaign of the Royal Air Force, conservative military men began to say that the air enthusiasm had been proved wrong. They came back from Teheran saying that.

My point is that it's too early to make such a pronouncement—far too early. In a following column I want to appraise current air strength in relation to the outcome of the war.

THE CHIEF

The executive officer wears the gold. But the chief's fellow who runs the ship. He's boss of the men from deck to the hold.

So, boy, in his presence secure your lip.
The chief has hash marks on his sleeve.
And bitter words on the end of his tongue.
He's master, boy, from the time you leave.
Till you're back in port and your last bell's rung.

The chief has the salt of the sea in his hair.
His eyes are as sharp as a gull's in flight.
According to him, he's been everywhere.
He may be old, but he still can fight.

He is wise to sailors; their tricks he knows.
If you think to fool him, he'll prove you wrong.
When the chief gives an order, my boy, it goes!

So do as he says and you'll get along.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:22. Sun rises tomorrow 5:31.

In traveling along the highway of Success, it's a good plan to keep to the right.

You have to die before some people say it with flowers.

It is claimed a man can love more than one woman at a time if they don't find it out.

While it is true that some women make a fool out of a man there are others who make a man out of a fool.

NEEDED A HUSBAND

Woman: I want a good, sensible sort of dog—thoroughly housebroken—that will obey me implicitly, come promptly when he's called, and that can be trained to fetch and carry things I want. One that will walk quietly at my side and keep his place while I'm away and—
Proprietor: Lady, you don't want a dog. You want a husband!

The government is now planning to regulate the prices charged in beauty shops and barber shops.

Henry Ford admits that he was wrong when he predicted the war would end in sixty days.

A poet writes that the dandelion is really a beautiful plant. Let's hope that makes the rest of the lawn green with envy.

NOT HIS FAULT

Judge: "This is a sad case. You, who remained honest until you were 40, have tarnished your name and dishonored your family all for the sake of 100 miserable dollars. Have you anything to say for yourself?"
Defendant: "Yes, your honor. Was it my fault that it was so few?"

Today's fable: Once upon a time a bunch of bus passengers who were riding to the end of the line went to the rear of the coach and did not clutter up the entrance as though frozen there.

When the plane replaces the auto for private travel, many a pilot, no doubt, will get a ticket for going around a cloud on one wing.

CLERK HELPED OUT

An elderly woman went to the counter of a telegraph office and said she wished to send a greetings telegram to her nephew in Australia. Unfortunately, she had mislaid the name of the town, but was certain it had something to do with a dog's tail. Could the post office help her?

The counter clerk thought for a moment before he asked: "Is it Wagga Wagga?"

A hundred miles per gallon of gasoline in your auto is a promise for the future. But of course, by that time we'll all be flying planes.

There ain't no justice. All good comic strips go to hell when the originators die.

If your landlord raises your rent, pay it gladly. He will have to refund, plus $50 for each month.

The two parties used to stand for definite principles. Now one stands for Roosevelt and the other won't stand for him.

Maybe people could live on insects, as the experts tell us. We know several whose diet is chiefly bug-juice.

The next job will be to keep quacks and rogues from selling bread mold to the ignorant as penicillin.

The thing to remember is that Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin oral pledges aren't worth a rusty nail if anything happens to them.

"That girl frankly admits she is looking for a husband."

"I thought you had one."

"So I have, and I spend most of my time looking for him."

Every once in a while someone starts a discussion about keeping dogs on leash. Once the city council was going at it hot and heavy. One councilman was particularly insistent that an ordinance be adopted.

"I demand action," he said. "These dogs are running around too often and must be stopped. An ordinance with plenty of teeth in it will do the job. We have put signs up all over, to tell about the new law."

"But first you'd better see that the dogs know how to read," gently advised another councilman, and that proposed measure blew out the window in a gale of laughter.

The one sure proof of breeding is to maintain courtship's courtesy consideration and personal dignity in the intimacy of marriage.

Americanism: Fighting to give everybody first speech, howling because the English and Russians talk about our coming election.

Maybe Morgenstern can tell us why everything goes up but the stocks people bought as a protection against inflation.

That lie-detector proved the Count innocent of killing his father-in-law. Are the Bahama police still looking for the native who did it?

How strange that gossips can't remember any statement accurately, yet can swear to the exact words when they get on the witness stand.

Another curiosity we'd like to see is a hand that some self-pitying person has worked to the bone.

Christian brotherhood would be easy if universal. You wouldn't mind turning the other cheek for the other guy wouldn't sock it.

A little business man has just been fined $20,000 for not sending in one of those complicated reports on employees. What a scratching in waste baskets that will cause.

Good Taste

BLACK-BORDERED VISITING CARDS

"Are black-bordered visiting cards in good taste for those in mourning?"

Answer: Black-bordered visiting cards, writing paper and envelopes may be used by those in mourning for a member of their immediate family—such as a wife, husband, mother, father, brother or sister. But they should not be used after the death of a more distant relative. Such cards and stationery should be used only by those who actually wear mourning clothes and should be discarded as soon as such apparel has been put away, when all-white cards and paper should be resumed.

The modern tendency is to avoid extreme black borders. The average width is now one-quarter or one-eighth of an inch for even the deepest mourning. However, the width chosen may depend upon the personal taste of the bereaved.

Of course, neither black-bordered visiting cards nor stationery is necessarily used by one who is in mourning. Their use is a matter of individual taste.

Never is either used except by those who wear mourning and the moment mourning clothes are removed, all-white stationery and cards should be resumed.

Question: When a shower is given for me, should I open the presents or take them home in their wrappings?—Doris.

Answer: You should open the presents always and exclaim over each, thanking each donor heartily as you look at her gift. Not only shower presents but any presents given to you should be opened when presented.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELP CHILD WHO FAILS

Promotion day is near at hand. There will be many sorrowing school children who won't "pass".

In some schools, however, practically all elementary school children will be promoted to the next grade whether they have completed the work of the grade this year or not, the theory being that to be left behind is too discouraging to the child and that he can learn best with others of about his own age. Some other schools aim to permit a child to repeat not more than one grade.

This theory reads well and could be made practical if every teacher next fall set each child to learning only what he is prepared to learn, no matter in what grade he happens to be then. But there are relatively few teachers trained in theory or practice to do this, and win large classes (the size of many growing year by year) very few teachers find a way to give a child lessons that he should or could learn. See how serious this problem becomes when, thanks to the war, so many school children are transferred from one school to another once or several times a year.

What actually happens to most children is that they are asked to do the regular work for the grade they happen to be in. You can see what this means to the child who has been passed to a higher grade before having mastered the basic essentials of the grade from which he is promoted, unless he is assigned to do what he is prepared to do. How utterly hopeless his learning difficulties become as he continues longer and longer in school. We parents have a right to expect the school authorities who promote practically all children to guide the teacher receiving these children by giving them lessons they can learn successfully.

Even in the schools where the child is supposed to "pass" his grade before promotion, many are passed who need to be working on materials much below those of the grade they are in. How much more such a special guardian needed when practically all children are promoted wholesale.

Various Grade Levels

The wise teacher, say of the fifth grade, thinks of her children as needing to study in her class at even one or so at sixth—some at fourth, some at third, and even a few at second or first. On the child's record card should be designated just about at what grade level in each or all subjects he can succeed.

Regardless of the school's plan many parents heap on the child needless sorrows over his report card. Shame, ridicule, unfavorable comparison with another child, scolding or punishment won't help. "The damage" has been done. What is the best thing to do from now on?

In some cases the child might be promoted from a failing summer school, or from the help of a good tutor might be able to map out a good program for him. But in most instances, the parents will do well not to discuss the matter except to say, "We will see what we can do to help you get on better at school next fall." Then, with the counsel of the teacher, ways might be found to help the child gain more success at school.

Words Of Wisdom

This is one of the sad conditions of life, that experience is not transmissible. No man will learn from the suffering of another; he must suffer himself.

Hints On Etiquette

Use the teaspoon to stir tea or coffee, but it is incorrect to convey the beverage to the mouth with the spoon to taste it. Sip from the cup.

REAL FIGHTING FRENCH

Fighting French and no mistake are the men of General Juin's command, who have been covering themselves with distinction at the Cassino front. They took Castellote in a seven-mile advance and pushed to the second German defense line.

General Juin, who was selected by General Giraud to command the French forces at the front, has received the warm congratulations of General Clark, to whose Fifth Army they are attached.

General de Gaulle's disposition to seek quarrels with the American and British over the role which the Aiziers Committee of National Liberation shall take in administration of French territory has obscured to many the fact that the London and Washington governments are extremely anxious to have France return as speedily as possible to its position as a great power, formidable on the ground, on the sea and in the air.

They welcome the mounting indications that French soldiers at the front will play an increasingly distinguished part in the struggle for their country's liberation. As for the Aiziers committee, it might get further by showing itself more moderate in its claims, and in the exercise of the authority conceded it—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

ONION RINGS

French fried onion rings are a nice garnish and taste good, too, with any meat dish. Slice Spanish onions in three-eighths inch slices, dip in milk, then in flour, which has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Drop in deep, hot fat (350 degrees F.) and fry until a medium brown. Serve at once on meat platter.

The British navy, together with the R. A. F., has sunk more than six million tons of German and Italian merchant shipping.

War Prisoners Try To Avoid Waste
Camps Found To Be Well Guarded Now
War Prisoner Camps Self-Controlled

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Col. Philip K. Moisan, in command of the war prisoner camp at Fort Lee, explained to me during my visit to Fort Lee that every war prisoner receives 10 cents a day scrip which he may save or spend at the canteen. Every prisoner, if he is a private (I did not visit officer camps) is paid for his work at the community's prevailing rate.

Of this wage he receives 80 cents a day in scrip and credit. The rest of his pay goes to the government. All of the work of the prison camps is done by the prisoners themselves. I wish I had a prisoner or two to run my kitchen. They are such economical fellows that out of 25,000 pounds of food or 11,000 meals they prepared for their own mess at Fort Lee during a period of two weeks there was a wastage of only 25 pounds of meat and liquid.

Never seen a bone except when it goes into the kitchen in raw meat," Colonel Moisan laughed. "After its meat has been eaten, they boil the bones for soup or grind it up for something. But it never comes back in one piece. Some of the prisoners have put on nine pounds since they came. Their average age? About 22. The range is from 16 years to about 30."

"Certainly there is a little trouble here and there," the commanding officer admitted. "But we work through the camp spokesman on national pride. Right now we're taking the guard house as a carpenter shop. No, we have never had a successful escape. You couldn't direct some of those fellows out."

When I was taken back to the camp to see the outside, I remember that Colonel Moisan had said about the chance of a prisoner escaping. Strong lights glared at the trough between the double line of protective wiring that surrounds the stockade.

On the watch towers, guards stood at attention, rapid fire guns in hand. From inside the camp came the music of German voices singing national anthems—their own national anthems.

Then suddenly behind us in the darkness there was the lightning sound of gravel violently ground. A sharp wrench of brakes. An Army truck came to a harsh stop. Four guards, carbines in hand, jumped out and rushed at us, shouting: "Halt! What are you doing here?"

Oh, sorry, beg pardon," the guards saw the uniforms of my guides. "We have to be careful."

A little disturbed, we started back to the main camp, when sharply they came another order: "Halt! A man hurried out of a small house. 'What do you want? Who are you?' It was Colonel Moisan, the commanding officer.

"Oh! Please excuse me," he apologized. "But we can't afford to take a chance. Not one single chance."

We drove off, terrifiedly aware of the danger that lay behind the apparent order and calm.

Camps Self-Controlled

The war prisoner camps are self-controlled—up to a certain point. Prisoners are divided into battalions. First, there is the company commander selected by the United States officer in charge of the war camp. The company commander reports to the control officer. The control officers report to the United States officer in charge.

Sweden Fears To Comply With Allied Demands

Asserts Invasion By Germany Is Likely If Such Action Is Taken By Sweden

By LEON PEARSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Swedish government, it was revealed today, has told American officials it fears a Nazi invasion. If Sweden should comply with Allied demands to stop shipments of ball bearings to Germany.

According to the Swedish viewpoint, such an action would be viewed by Germany as so clearly unneutral that an actual military invasion might follow. Sweden lies in a vulnerable position, surrounded by German troops on four sides.

This argument was not impressive in Allied councils, however. It was pointed out that Germany cannot afford to undertake a new offensive operation at a time when her energies are bent on defending against invasion—particularly in view of the unprecedented strength of the Swedish army, built up during nearly five years of the war.

Regardless of military considerations, Allied economic pressure continued today, following the black-listing yesterday of an additional 38 Swedish firms, bringing to a total of more than 400 the number of Swedish firms stigmatized as trading with the enemy.

State Court Gets Nancy Holt Appeal

HARRISBURG, May 23.—(INS)—The state supreme court took under consideration today a petition to set aside the life sentence imposed by the Greene County Court on 29-year-old Nancy Jeanette Holt of Waynesburg, convicted of systematically poisoning her husband.

I. J. Hook, Waynesburg attorney, told the appellate court that the commonwealth failed to prove "beyond a reasonable doubt" that Mrs. Holt's husband, a tractor operator on the "Big Inch" oil pipeline construction project, met a homicidal death.

In asking for a new trial, Hook contended that presiding Judge C. W. Waychoff's charge to the jury "eliminated all the weight of our evidence."

Comedian Must Now Take It Easy

Doctor Advises Lou Costello To Abandon Plans For Big Tour

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—(INS)—Doctors have forbidden Lou Costello, poly-poly screen comedian, to make the vaudeville tour that would have netted him and his partner, Bud Abbott, a fortune, but the boys are going to make one appearance this summer, they announced today.

During the first week in August, they'll play the Steel Pier in Atlantic City.

It was here, some years ago, that the former burlesque funny men got their first big-time engagement. They were booked by Eddie Sherman who later became their personal manager.

From the Steel Pier, the boys went to the Kate Smith radio hour and subsequently to the movies.

"The doctors said I couldn't work but every other week," said Costello today. "So Bud and I gave up the big tour. We are going to play the one spot just for old time's sake."

Officials Probing Fire In School

PITTSBURGH, May 23.—(INS)—Authorities today were investigating the cause of a five-alarm fire which threatened to destroy the American Avenue grade school in Sheraden.

Eleven fire companies, aided by numerous civilian defense units, battled the blaze for over an hour before bringing the flames under control. Fire Chief William H. Davis estimated damage at $10,000.

The first alarm was turned in by two 12-year-old boys, who saw smoke pouring from a ventilator on the roof. Shortly after the first company arrived the entire roof broke into flames and four more alarms were turned in within a half hour.

Engineers Have Fine Program In Closing Season

Food Processing Is Shown At Final
Dinner Meeting Of Year
In The Castleton

Members of the Mahoning and Shenango Valley Engineers Society enjoyed one of the most interesting programs of the year in connection with their final dinner meeting of the season in The Castleton Monday evening.

The program was in charge of Harold Yost of the Matthews Conveyor company of Ellwood City, on the subject "Food Fights for Victory," with four splendid films showing the food processing industry. This depicted all types of food processing, including packing, dehydrating and quick freezing of vegetables and meats. There was also a film on the manufacture of candy, mints and bars.

The program was quite different than those usually presented dealing with the steel industry in its many ramifications.

Announcement was made of the annual picnic, which will take place August 26 at Castle Beach and the opening meeting of the fall which will be on September 11 in charge of the Johnson Bronze company.

The attendance was exceptionally good for the season. President H. L. McFeaters reported.

Sanitarium Garage Is Hit By Lightning

MERCER, Pa., May 23.—The only reported damage resulting from the electrical storm last night was to a six-car garage belonging to the Mercer sanitarium, which was struck by lightning.

Firemen from both local companies received the alarm at 9:55 but found the blaze under control on their arrival. The lightning struck a five-gallon oil can and the flames would have made rapid headway but for the quick action of a caretaker.

Bronze Star For Heroic Army Nurse

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—Lieut. Cordelia E. Cook, heroic Army nurse who was wounded and then went on to cover herself with glory during the fighting in Italy, has been awarded the Army bronze star for her bravery, and thus becomes the first American woman of the war to win two decorations.

Lieut. Cook, whose parents live at Ft. Thomas, Ky., received the Purple Heart last December after she was wounded after her field hospital was bombed in the Prosenzaro sector.

The award of the bronze star, announced today by the War Department, resulted from "meritorious service" during combat operations from November, 1943, to January, 1944.

Chrysler Workers Ordered To Report

DETROIT, May 23.—(INS)—Workers at the Chrysler corporation's Highland park plant today were ordered to return to work immediately by officers of local 490, UAW-CIO.

The order climaxed a meeting of the local's executive board following combined pressure of the International Union and the National War Labor board. Previously, the UAW-CIO International Union prepared to take full control of the rebellious local 490 from its officers for their failure to obey orders to end the strike which affected six plants and made 11,500 workers idle.

The strike was precipitated when 16 union members were discharged.

French Railway System In Chaos

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—A commentator of the Nazi-operated Paris radio admitted today that "the French railway system is in complete chaos."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Such an outright admission from an enemy source led observers to believe that the Germans might have an ulterior motive in permitting such a broadcast.

The commentator, identified as Robert Debeauplan, said: "The Allies have successfully pulverized into rubble the whole Marshall yards, destroyed countless locomotives and made scores of railway stations unusable."

Pico Evacuation Reported By Nazis

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—The German agency DNE today reported Nazi evacuation of Pico, key defense point on the allied fifth army front in Italy.

Pico is at the northern end of a road extending into Itri and is just six miles west of Pontecorvo, one of the big fortresses in the Hitler line. Pico itself is a strong-point behind that concrete and steel line.

London observers pointed out that Pico, according to earlier German reports, already has changed hands several times within the course of a day. These sources identified the mountain village as the last northern bastion of the Nazi switch line.

House Probe Of Ward Seizure Is In Progress

By WILLIAM THEIS
U. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A special House committee is probing further today into the legalistic background of the Montgomery Ward Chicago plant seizure with emphasis that its inquiry will be unaffected by the new seizure of a Montgomery Ward subsidiary in Springfield, Ill.

Rep. Ramspeck (D-Ga.) House majority whip and committee chairman, declared the "secret-member group" has no authority to investigate army confiscation of the Hummer Manufacturing Co., a Montgomery-war producer of war materials.

The committee, called as its second witness Gen. D. D. Reilly, member of the national labor relations board, after hearing Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board defend the April 26 seizure of the concern's Chicago property.

The Hummer case did not enter into testimony during Davis' appearance. Ramspeck said that while it might come up for discussion in the committee, the investigation dealt solely with the Chicago case.

Engines Collide, Fireman Killed

PITTSBURGH, May 23.—(INS)—One Pittsbn trainman was killed and another was scalded today in a collision of two locomotives in the Pennsylvania railroad's Pittsbn yards.

Fireman P. Petula, of Pittsbn, died in the cab of his shifting engine.

The shifter's engineer, W. A. Leathers, also of Pittsbn, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

A "road" engine backed across a switch into the cab of the shifter in an apparent misunderstanding of signals, a company spokesman said.

Neither of the locomotives was derailed.

Invasion Starts back in the Railroad Yards

PREPARATION for invasion of Europe started many months ago back in the railroad yards of America.

For it was here that the thousands of landing barges, special boats, guns, munitions and supplies first started on the long journey from production lines to battle lines.

In increasing quantities, Erie and other American Railroads are carrying a steady flow of materials and equipment to assure our troops every chance of success in the greatest assault ever attempted in history.

And the job will continue to grow greater each day.

But your railroads will get the job done with the help of the public, shippers and government agencies. In war, as in peace, Erie and other American Railroads provide fast, safe, dependable transportation.

Body Of Late Famous Humorist
Lies In Crypt In Front
Of Memorial

CLAREMORE, Okla., May 23.—(INS)—The body of Will Rogers lay today in a stone crypt in front of the Will Rogers memorial nearly nine years after the famous humorist crashed to his death in Alaska with his plane pilot, Wiley Post.

The body was brought to Claremore secretly by train yesterday from the Glendale, Cal., cemetery where it was buried shortly after Rogers was killed August 15, 1935.

Only a small gathering of friends and relatives, fewer than a hundred, were permitted to attend the services. Among them were former Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma, and the present governor, Robert S. Kerr.

Rogers' widow was prevented from coming from her home in Glendale by illness.

When the services were concluded the casket was carried from the memorial room to its final resting place in the simple crypt near his former home.

New Landing Boat Is Demonstrated

Mock Invasion Set-Up For Reporters And Army And Navy Reviewers

LITTLE CREEK, Va.—(Delayed)—The Navy removed the clock of censorship from the newest addition to its landing force equipment when the LSM (Landing Ship Medium) was put through its paces in a mock invasion before reporters and approximately fifty members of the Army-Navy staff college at this amphibious training base.

This LSM was commissioned last April, is over 200 feet long, has a beam of 34 feet and carries armament that includes 20 millimeter AA guns.

The objective, sandy and desolate Bradford Beach, had undergone an all night softening up bombardment by fleet guns and now overhead were racing the carrier based Gruman Wildcat Fighters, strafing the landing strip.

Take Up Positions

The first few waves of light craft have already wheeled and gone in with personnel and light machine guns and mortars to secure a temporary beachhead. General quarters are sounded and every man takes his station.

As the beach comes in view, previously planted land mines are going off. The stern anchor is dropped and in a few short seconds the LSM crashed into the beach and grinds to a stop. The bow doors are swung open and the ramp is let down. The lead tank roars out dragging a heavy steel mat to make a roadway for the rest of the cargo.

By this time the rest of the wave is hitting the beach almost simultaneously. One after the other the tanks and half-tracks jerk forward and are gunned down the ramp disappearing over the low hills to contact the "enemy."

Very Compact

The LSM, using her stern winch and anchor, pulls herself off the beach and heads for home. The compactness and utilization of every bit of space on this LSM is only topped by a submarine. Bunks swing up and out of the way during the day. Gangways and doors are narrow and a maze of pipes leaves just enough to get around. It is Diesel run.

Concentrated fire control, communications and navigation are located in the conning tower. Below decks and about midships are crowded the radio room, sick-bay, power drills and a small latrine for the machinists mates.

Cartel Agreements Strongly Opposed

Standard Oil Co. Head Opposes International Price Fixing And Production Restrictions

By WILLIAM S. NEAL (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 23.—President Ralph W. Gallagher of the Standard Oil Co. (N. J.) declared his opposition today to international cartels which fix prices and restrict production.

Testifying before a Senate judiciary subcommittee, Gallagher endorsed, with modifications, the O'Mahoney bill to compel registration with the Justice Department of cartel agreements under which prices are fixed, markets are allocated and restrictions are put on sales of products.

The stand taken by Gallagher was construed by sub-committee members as a new policy for Standard Oil. Its late president, William S. Farish, was charged before the Senate Truman committee with having engineered restrictive cartel agreements on synthetic rubber and other patents with I. G. Farben of Germany.

"We believe that the best pattern is that of free and open competition," said Gallagher.

"But whatever road other nations may take, we should find means consistent with the welfare of our own country which will enable American business legally to compete abroad on an equal footing with the nationals of other countries."

Declaring that foreign trade is of vital importance in the postwar era, Gallagher said American business is looking for "a green light" to go ahead and compete in world markets.

F. W. Walker Company
108 South Mercer Street
New Castle, Pa.
Gentlemen:

Confirming our conversation today the installation of a Salem Automatic Frozen Food Locker Plant can be made in approximately six to eight weeks after receipt of full information, and priority allocation and certificates.

It is understood, of course, that the priority application can only be applied for after the regulations set up by the War Food Administration and W. P. B. regulations, including the advance rental of 70% of the lockers to be installed, are complied with.

It therefore follows that the sooner lockers are signed for, the quicker the application can be requested.

Yours very truly,
A. T. Greiner
General Manager

LOW COST

The lockers are of two types: cupboard and drawer. Rental for a cupboard locker is $15 per year and drawer locker $18 per year.

LESS THAN 5c PER DAY

LOCATION OF PLANT

The F. W. Walker Company Frozen Food Locker Plant will be located at 426 North Croton Avenue. This convenient location is easy to reach and parking space is adequate.

Need for economy prompted some farmers in the Pacific Northwest to conceive the idea of a cold storage plant for their products. That was over ten years ago. Now, nearly every community of any size over the nation have locker storage plants. City folk and farmer, alike, enjoy its convenience, the ease of preserving foods and the better quality of their frozen products. Rent your locker space now to complete W.P.B. requirements, so construction of the plant can be started soon.

FACILITIES of the F. W. WALKER CO. PLANT

- Produce and meat that you raise or buy when the market price is low can be stored and used or sold when prices are high.
- This locker plant will quick-freeze and preserve all fruits, vegetables, meats, poultry, game and fish, thereby eliminating the dangers of home-canning over a hot stove and the danger of spoilage due to under-processing.
- Our facilities will also provide for the slaughtering of livestock at any time and the curing and smoking of pork and beef.
- A modern kitchen with adequate facilities will be at your disposal for preparation of fruits and vegetables. Competent supervision will be available.
- The F. W. Walker Company Frozen Food Storage Plant will be conveniently located on Croton Avenue, downtown New Castle. Parking facilities are adequate.
- If the required number of locker reservations are made this month, installation can be completed in time for this year's early crops.

MAIL THIS COUPON TODAY

Without obligation on my part I would like to have more information about the locker plant.

Why Employers Are Adopting Employee Pension Plans

Employee-employer relationship improves whenever a firm adopts a pension plan using trusts invested in insurance company contracts.

Here is why—

1. The plan relieves employees of worry concerning financial security and old age.
2. Because retirement is automatic, younger men know they have a better opportunity for promotion.
3. The additional compensation provided by the plan is attractive and also is in keeping with the times—because its benefits are deterred.

Pension Plans increase loyalty, decrease turnover, improve efficiency, and cut labor costs.

Demobilization Is Considered

Partial Army Demobilization After Defeat Of Germany Is Indicated

NAVY MUST SERVE UNTIL JAPAN QUITS

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 23.—The war department today advised the senate postwar committee that there can be a partial demobilization after defeat of Germany and before the conquest of Japan, but the navy department said that branch must be maintained at peak strength until Japan is whipped.

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal submitted estimates of the effect of defeat of Germany on the armed forces in connection with the committee's study of the general demobilization problem.

The army estimated that 200,000 to 250,000 men can be discharged each month for a year after Germany is defeated. The rate of return of men from abroad, the committee was told, depends somewhat on the shipping situation.

May Retain 1,000,000 Navy

Secretary Forrestal said that two million can be released from the navy within 18 to 24 months after defeat of Japan. This would indicate plans to retain a navy of one million, 600 thousand men.

The figure closely paralleled estimates submitted by Robert Nathan, economist and former chairman of the war production board's planning committee.

"The army cannot be demobilized suddenly after peace is declared," said Nathan. "Storehouses, records and other installations cannot be just abandoned."

Nathan estimated that two million 600 thousand to three million men would be retained in the army and navy even after Japan is defeated.

Estimating the problems of post-war unemployment, he "guessed" that Germany would be defeated this year and that Japan can be defeated one year later.

In order to provide a high level of employment, he said, national productivity must be increased 50 per cent above the level of 1940.

Bricker Charges CIO Activity In Roosevelt Behalf

HOUSTON, Tex., May 23.—(INS)—Texas political circles resounded today with the declaration of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio that he reliably was informed the CIO political action committee "is prepared to spend $5,000,000 to perpetuate the present administration."

The candidate for the Republican presidential nomination described the CIO committee in an address before a GOP rally last night as a "powerful and dangerous group which is far more active than the Democratic national committee in campaigning for a fourth term for the New Deal."

"Never in all history," he said, "has there been such a program of spending and pressure as the one which has been planned by this organization which feeds off the laboring man and woman and seeks to dominate our government with radical and Communist schemes."

"They (the workers) are being duped and led into a form of national socialism that will be obnoxious to them when they recognize it—which may be too late."

Asks Safeguarding Of Information In Canvass Of State

HARRISBURG, May 23.—(INS)—The importance of safeguarding war information secured in the forthcoming canvass for correct military addresses of absentee voters was impressed upon local defense council representatives today by Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, director of the state defense council.

He explained that volunteer canvassers must not discuss the information received during the survey and not to make carbon copies of their reports to local election board chairmen.

Hutchison emphasized that volunteers should not permit family members to disclose the location of their sons and daughters if they are serving outside the country because the APO number will assure prompt delivery of mail. He warned the representatives that heavy penalties could be imposed for fraudulent returns.

In addition to members of the armed forces, persons serving with United Service Organizations, the American Red Cross, the Society of Friends (Quakers) and the Women's Auxiliary Service Pilots were eligible to receive military ballots from Pennsylvania.

Approximately two hundred local council members attended the meeting which was to be highlighted by an address by Gov. Edward Martin.

more than 1,000 British bombers which attacked Germany, France and Belgium.

The Germans reported numerous air battles over southeastern France and acknowledged the presence of raiders over Germany.

The accounts by the Nazi agency DNB of the presence of Allied planes over western Germany and southeastern France indicated a possible two-way assault by forces from Britain and also from Italian bases. It was pointed out, however, that planes based in England on occasion have flown into southeastern France.

The British night blows were concentrated mainly on the German industrial and communications centers of Dortmund and Brunswick.

Huge Fires
Huge fires were left blazing in Dortmund as a result of a concentrated attack. The Nazis termed the shattering bombardment a "terror raid."

Clouds over Brunswick prevented immediate observation of results of the attack there.

The bomber command ships also heavily bombed the French railway centers of Orleans and Le Mans. Initial reports indicated these attacks were well concentrated.

Mosquitos also attacked the Rhineland chemical center of Ludwigshafen and an airfield in Belgium.

Other craft mined enemy waters. The night operations cost the R. A. F. 35 planes, while the Nazi fighters were shot down.

It was estimated that the R. A. F. probably dropped some 3,500 American tons of bombs in the widespread raids.

more than 1,000 British bombers which attacked Germany, France and Belgium.

The Germans reported numerous air battles over southeastern France and acknowledged the presence of raiders over Germany.

The accounts by the Nazi agency DNB of the presence of Allied planes over western Germany and southeastern France indicated a possible two-way assault by forces from Britain and also from Italian bases. It was pointed out, however, that planes based in England on occasion have flown into southeastern France.

The British night blows were concentrated mainly on the German industrial and communications centers of Dortmund and Brunswick.

Huge Fires
Huge fires were left blazing in Dortmund as a result of a concentrated attack. The Nazis termed the shattering bombardment a "terror raid."

Clouds over Brunswick prevented immediate observation of results of the attack there.

The bomber command ships also heavily bombed the French railway centers of Orleans and Le Mans. Initial reports indicated these attacks were well concentrated.

Mosquitos also attacked the Rhineland chemical center of Ludwigshafen and an airfield in Belgium.

Other craft mined enemy waters. The night operations cost the R. A. F. 35 planes, while the Nazi fighters were shot down.

It was estimated that the R. A. F. probably dropped some 3,500 American tons of bombs in the widespread raids.

PITTSBURGH, May 23.—(INS)—The mammoth Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation today was found not guilty on government charges of falsifying records made on war-bond steel.

The six-man, six-woman jury's sealed verdict, opened in Federal court this morning after three weeks of testimony, completely exonerated the firm of all charges in connection with the manufacture and shipment of steel plate from its giant Irvin works.

There were 46 counts on which the jury decided in the one remaining indictment. The company would have been liable to a maximum penalty of $10,000 per count had it been found guilty.

U. S. Cannot Feed World

Shares Great Responsibility In Aiding Other Nations However, Says Wickard

By JAMES H. SMITH
U. S. Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 23.—U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard was of the opinion today that the United States "can't be the granary of the whole world" despite record-breaking wartime production.

He said, however, that the United States shares "a great responsibility in seeing that liberated peoples are given food for their well being."

Wickard conferred with state agricultural adjustment agency officials and inspected some farms in the Harrisburg area before boarding a train for his home in Indiana.

He predicted that there would not be a food surplus in the post-war era unless there was widespread unemployment.

Result Of Planning

"The food we're eating today," he declared, "is the result of the thinking, planning and hard work done a year ago."

Wickard admitted that some food purchased by the government had spoiled, but pointed out that it was impossible to prevent it due to the exigencies of the war.

Food production, Wickard said, had increased one-third since the outbreak of war while per capita production currently was greater than during World War I. He credited conservation methods, better machinery, education of farmers, the support of prices and "hard work" of farmers for the increased production.

Victory gardeners were lauded by the president's cabinet member for their aid in helping the farmers meet food production goals.

Among the players entered for the Royal Air Force chess tournament were two bearing the names of Tulip and Bloom.

Westminster Coed Wins Fourth Place In Essay Contest

NEW WILMINGTON, May 23.—Marjorie Boles, Barberton, O., journalism student at Westminster college, has been awarded fourth place in a national essay contest sponsored jointly by Gamma Alpha Chi, women's advertising fraternity, and Mademoiselle magazine, according to word received here.

Purpose of the contest was to have women journalism students in American colleges and universities write essays and radio broadcast scripts to encourage enlistment in the WACS, WAVES and Marine Women's Reserves. Miss Boles' essay was written to stimulate recruiting of women marines. As net prize award, she received a $50 war bond.

A junior, Miss Boles is a graduate of Barberton high school. She is a member of the staff of the Herald, Westminster newspaper, and Chi Omega social sorority. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Boles, 631 Wooster road, Barberton.

The Express correspondent said that eyewitness accounts refute the Nazi claim that the shooting took place as the prisoners attempted to rush the gates and added that neither trials or inquiries preceded the killings.

The dispatch added that the shootings were apparently due to a breakdown of German morale and discipline.

"During the last months most of the guards at Stalag Luft Three behaved like lunatics," the dispatch said.

Camp And Hospital Council Seeks Two Radios, Typewriter

Additional Request Is Received By Local Organization From Deshon Hospital

Two small radios, new or used and a portable typewriter are included in the latest request made of the Camp and Hospital Council of Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, Mrs. Charles E. Allen, chairman of the council announced today.

Any person or organization which will assume the responsibility of furnishing these items is asked to call Mrs. Allen, 1299, or to leave them at the Red Cross Chapter House, North Beaver street.

The Camp and Hospital Council serves as a clearing medium between the military at Camp Reynolds and Deshon hospital, and the community, in furnishing the requests for needed items at these two places. When a need arises the council is notified, and the local organization attempts to fill it.

The response of the community has been most gratifying, and many needed articles have been furnished. Several local organizations are now working to fulfill previous requests but the request for the two small radios and typewriter have not been taken care of.

Allied Fliers In Germany Massacred

Pilots Who Escaped To England Via Sweden Tell True Facts Of Horror Killings

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—British pilots who escaped from Germany to Sweden were quoted in a Stockholm dispatch to the Daily Express today as declaring that the 47 Royal Air Force and Allied officers shot last March by the Germans were "massacred" and that their deaths did not result from an attempt to escape from the prisoner of war camp where they were held.

The Express said that an official report on the deaths of the officers who were interned at Stalag Luft III may be prepared in the next few days based on the statements by the escaped pilots.

The report the Express forecast may reveal one of the most shocking stories of the war, saying that according to eyewitnesses the massacre of RAF fliers did not occur in a clash between prisoners and guards.

The Express correspondent said that eyewitness accounts refute the Nazi claim that the shooting took place as the prisoners attempted to rush the gates and added that neither trials or inquiries preceded the killings.

The dispatch added that the shootings were apparently due to a breakdown of German morale and discipline.

Dr. Dewey Tells Of Internment By Japanese

Missionary's Experience Included Three Chinese Civil Wars And Japanese Internment

Three Chinese civil wars, and a Japanese internment camp are part of the missionary experience of Dr. Horace E. Dewey, one of the speakers at the Grove City conference of the Methodist church.

Eleven of his twenty-three years in China were spent under Japanese restrictions in Changin, in the north of China, "where the Great Wall Goes Down to the Sea." He and eleven others were kept there for eleven months after Pearl Harbor. He was later moved to an internment camp where 1,850 people were confined, four-fifths of whom were British.

One of us was tortured," Dr. Dewey says. "Our leaders were slapped now and then, but there wasn't any torturing. In fact, people here at home who have heard from interned relatives since two years ago last May can take hope from the fact that torturing seems to have been stopped after that time."

Lack of food was the main trouble, where Dr. Dewey was stationed. He lost 27 pounds in six weeks and that wasn't especially unusual. The Japanese guards were a peculiar mixture of arrogance and superficial courtesy, referring to Dr. Dewey as "sir" whenever they spoke to him.

The reception in New York was wonderful," says the missionary speaking of the return, "but it was the sight of the Statue of Liberty that seemed to be our real reception. I think it was that way for everyone."

W. C. T. U. AND L. T. L.

Frances Willard W. C. T. U. Mrs. Ireta Dart, of East Washington street, was hostess Friday evening to the Frances Willard W. C. T. U. Each guest was presented with a corsage of lilies of the valley tied with the W. C. T. U. white ribbon bow.

Mrs. W. H. Humphrey conducted the worship period. "White Ribbon Recruits" was the subject for discussion. Mrs. Humphrey discussed "Children and the Influence of Adults on Them." Various passages of Scripture pertaining to childhood were read. Following the reading of selected poems, a talk on "Mother's Day and Childhood" was given. The group then sang "When He Cometh to Make up His Jewels."

Miss Martha Dadds announced seven new members of the union this year. Mrs. E. L. Young reported for the calling committee, while Mrs. J. E. Rodgers reported on the soldiers and sailors work. After Mrs. R. M. Bunney spoke of the Y. T. C. work, it was decided to pay expenses of a girl to Youth's Temperance Council encampment in June at Grantham Bible college. A contribution for state work will be sent to Pennsylvania Youth's Temperance.

"White Ribbon Recruits Program" was discussed by Mrs. J. C. Pherson, who conducted a beautiful consecration service besides talking on "Mother's Day." A poem "How the Flowers Grow," a story "The Quiet Hour," and a clipping on "Intemperance Takes Its Toll" were also contributed by Mrs. Pherson.

Tea was served by the hostess and her aides, Mrs. R. H. McConaghy, Mrs. A. C. Gardner, Mrs. T. A. Preston, Miss Anna Cox and Mrs. E. L. Young.

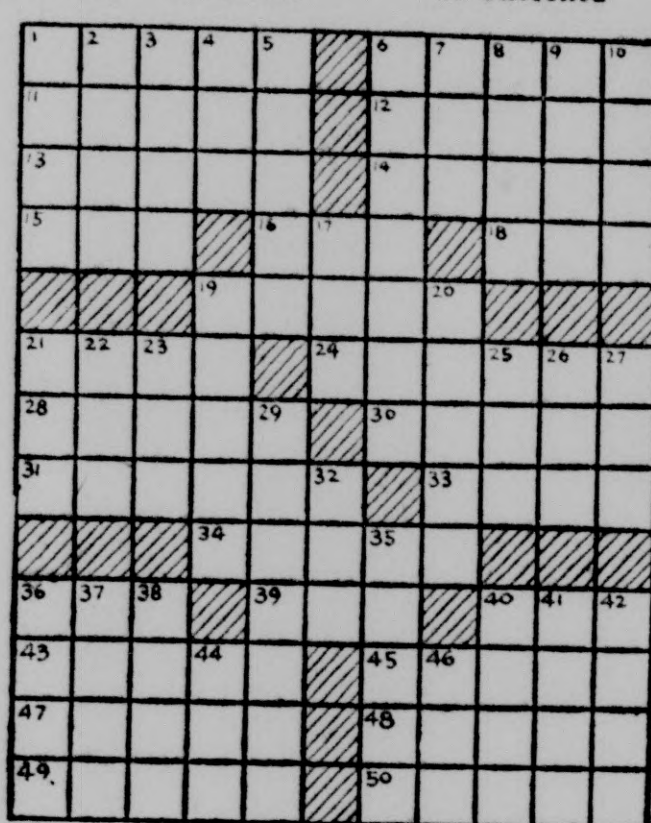

Next meeting will be a Flower Mission program, under the direction of Mrs. J. G. Forrest, at the Alhara Home on Tuesday, June 16, at 2 o'clock.

Urges Tax Relief In Pulp Industry

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—Sen. Mon C. Wallgren (D) Wash. urged immediate tax relief today for the nation's pulp producers to increase newsprint production as the senate Truman committee re-examines the board procedure for allocation of paper supplies.

"In some cases," Wallgren said, "pulp producers are being deprived of 90 per cent of their profits through taxes, and the result is that production has dropped. Something should be done to protect them and their investments, and I think it can be done."

He declined to offer proposals for possible tax legislation but described provisions covering depletion of stocks in the 1944 bill as "inadequate." The measure aided producers, he said, "but not enough."

In the face of WPB disclosures of new appeal procedures for magazine, newspaper and book publishers, the committee planned to recall Arthur R. Tanager, director of WPB's pulp and paper division, to outline further provisions of the tentative program.

Insanity Plea Presented For Officer's Defense

By JULIAN HARTT (U.S. Staff Correspondent)

ARLINGTON, Calif., May 23.—(INS)—Second Lieut. Beaufort G. Swancutt, neared the moment today when he will learn whether a plea of insanity will save him from general court martial on four counts of murder allegedly arising from his infatuation for a 19-year-old girl.

The question of his sanity on the night of last March 5, when he allegedly whipped a 45 service automobile to offer proposals for possible tax legislation but described provisions covering depletion of stocks in the 1944 bill as "inadequate." The measure aided producers, he said, "but not enough."

The soldier's attorneys indicated they would claim Swancutt was suffering from a type of epileptic symptoms, but still was unable to determine right from wrong or knowing right, could not adhere to the law.

Calls On Nation To Make Public U. S. Peace Aims

Senator Bridges Calls Upon President To Issue Statement Of Policy

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—Sen. Styles H. Bridges (R) N. H. called upon President Roosevelt today to make public without further delay this nation's peace aims. At the same time he warned that the American people will not stand for a post war world controlled by three or four large nations.

"What are our peace aims? Mr. President and do they bode good or ill?" he asked in a senate speech. "Are they universal in application, binding upon us all, permitting of no exceptions or servations, faint with no selfish or ulterior motives? or are they a patch-work of unprecedented and unpredictable necessities which will merely postpone the final issue of the war itself to the not too far distant future?"

Bridges said the president's silence "was unbecomingly and unbecomingly" he told the chief executive, "that your silence has become embarrassing and humiliating."

There must be no "appeasement" of Russia, he asserted, terming the Soviet nation "a lawless and ostracized totalitarian state."

"Certainly," he said, "the American people have not gone into this struggle for the purpose of turning over Europe to the control of any nation or group of nations, much less to submit to the errors of one dictatorship for another."

"It is not and it has not been our intention to divide, actually or in effect, the war-torn European nations under the hegemony of any nation, no matter how benevolently inclined, such a nation might profess to be."

Hotels Ordered To Fire 120 Men

PITTSBURGH, May 23.—(INS)—Two of Pittsburgh's largest hotels—the William Penn and the Roosevelt—today were told to fire 120 men who the War Manpower Commission claims, were hired in violation of the labor rationing program.

Area Manpower Director P. T. Fagan said he had asked the OPA to penalize the two hotels unless they complied with the "firing" order. The OPA could cut the food rations of the two hotels, if necessary, Fagan said.

The WMC maintained the men had been hired since March 1, when hiring of men in the Pittsburgh district was limited to essential industries. Hotels, it was explained, were classified as non-essential.

Icelanders Seeking Their Independence

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—The complete independence of Iceland was assured today as the result of a referendum now being held in that island republic, which will break the last tie with Denmark after 563 years of association.

The Icelandic minister in Washington, Thor Thors, declared today that, although the referendum will not be completed until Thursday, the result can be safely forecast, since all elements of the government and the population support the move for independence.

He gave an assurance that there will be no change in the foreign policy of Iceland, which has been friendly and favorable to the United States.

Iceland has been a sovereign state since 1918, but has maintained a tie with Denmark through having a common king in the person of King Christian. Th. referendum, however, will put an end to that tie.

New Tax Bill Passes House

Measure Simplifying Tax Returns For Thirty Million Sent To White House

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—The House today gave final approval to the tax simplification bill freeing 30 million Americans from the need to file regular income tax returns and sent the measure to the White House.

The final action came on unanimous acceptance of minor Senate amendments to the bill. Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., chairman of the tax-writing house ways and means committee, explained that the revisions were "mainly clarifying" and did not make substantial change in the legislation.

The bill measures the present normal and surtax rates into a new surtax and creates a new three per cent normal tax.

Correspondent Over Italian Battle Front

By MICHAEL CHINIGO (U.S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD AN ALLIED BOMBER OVER THE FIFTH ARMY BEACHHEAD, May 23.—(INS)—From the windows of an Allied bombing plane approaching the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead by air today, the whole battle sector looked like a huge panther, dug in and ready to spring. Further back and skirting the Tyrrhenian coast, we saw Americans abreast of Terracina, being subjected to an intense Nazi artillery barrage, opened in an apparent effort to dislodge the Doughboys' advance to the northwest and stabilize the battle temporarily on the so-called "switch-line."

Beachhead artillery at present is locking the Nazi perimeter which in the Littorio sector now is intensively covered with smoke with which the enemy is trying to hide his own movements.

Refugees from Rome disclose that Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring for the last three weeks has been evacuating civilians from all towns in the Alban hills. Members of the Nazi Todt organization aided by Italian labor units are feverishly attempting to bolster the lines before Rome.

The plane in which this correspondent flew over the battle area was piloted by Capt. Tom Hendrik of Lakeland, Fla., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Congress Planning For Inauguration

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—Congress abreast to plan today for the inauguration of the next president, on January 20, 1945.

The House appropriations committee approved a fund of $34,300 for special police protection for the ceremonies on that date.

Washington police officials told the committee that it was necessary to pay expenses of "experts" who come to the capital every four years to aid district officials in protecting the crowds against pickpockets and others "who might take advantage of the situation."

Acquittal To Have Some Effect On Other Steel Cases

PITTSBURGH, May 23.—(INS)—Acquittal of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation today on all charges of fabricating and destroying records of war steel tests appears to have deflated government enthusiasm for two other cases against the firm.

Although he declined to say what action he would recommend to the department of justice in regard to these other cases—one civil and one criminal—Robert L. Wright, special prosecutor in the trial, said: "Obviously this (the acquittal) will have some effect on those cases."

The pending criminal case charges the corporation and Lawrence S. Dahl, superintendent of the firm, with conspiracy to defraud the government by concealing material facts from a government agency.

A civil case lodged by the government seeks recovery of any damages suffered as a result of improper testing.

A third case also pends against Carnegie-Illinois growing out of the same Truman investigating committee disclosures on which the government cases were based, but this is an "informal" suit brought by a citizen, Attorney Herman Cogan of Chicago, who has been superseded by the government civil case. Cogan's case can come to trial only if the government drops its case.

Hitler Asserts Axis Will Win

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—Adolf Hitler is the world's most confirmed optimist. The DNB German agency said today that "despite all difficulties" the Axis will win the war.

This news was contained in a telegram sent by Hitler to Benito Mussolini on the fifth anniversary of the Italy-German military alliance and published by DNB.

Mussolini replied: "National Socialist Germany and Fascist Italy are determined to march to the end of the path which has been prescribed by fate. I want to express my deep belief in the victory of the German armies and their allies."

Tax Figures Refute Shortage Of Liquor

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—The treasury department cast doubt on the publicized liquor shortage today by revealing that almost 170 million dollars have been collected in liquor taxes last month, an increase of 37 millions over April 1943.

Treasury collection of gasoline taxes, on the other hand, dropped two millions from April of last year while telephone and telegraph taxes rose three millions.

It was the final meet of the 1944 track season for the squad coached by Bill Klee. New Castle made a favorable showing this season on the under-paths with a small and somewhat inexperienced squad, hampered at times by injuries to several boys who would have taken points if they had been in shape.

Bollas of Warren, a lad with a lot of stamina took both the half-mile run and the 440-yard dash and also ran in the mile relay to be the top-scorer in the meet, along with Reed his team-mate who scored a first in the 100-yard dash and ran in the half-mile relay. Warren also had ten points in the meet with firsts in the shot put and discus throws.

Campbell High Scores
New Castle gained five first places in the meet, with Bill Campbell being the high point man, getting 11 points, two firsts in the hurdles and third in the broad jump.

Walls took the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet 6 1/2 inches, his best mark, however. Warren ran away with both the mile and half-mile relay events, showing a well-balanced team in both events. No new records were set in any of the events. New Castle is now waiting the cinder cleated shoes and uniforms away for the season.

New Pro Football
League Will Meet

PITTSBURGH, May 23.—(INS)—Another "business session" of the newly formed professional football league (as yet unnamed) will be held Sunday in Pittsburgh.

Roland D. Payne, Pittsburgh promoter, who has been elected president pro tem of the league, announced that the meeting was being called to ratify the group's constitution, elect permanent officers; select a name for the league; compose rules on draft procedure; men now in the armed services; lift certificates of operation and issue franchises; select a site for permanent league headquarters and consider new applicants for certificates of operation.

Payne said he expects the new professional football league will get into actual play by September, 1945. He listed the following as cities which presently hold certificates with the league: New York, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Seattle. There's a strong possibility, he said, that Honolulu would also be included.

Yanks Amazed,
Silence Rules
British BoutsBY JOHN W. JARRELL
U. S. Staff Correspondent

WITH U. S. FORCES IN ENGLAND, May 23.—Corp. Ralph Hamilton, one of the American army's best boxers, shook his head in wonderment. The 175-pounder had been doing a little fighting under British amateur rules.

"And," commented Hamilton, whose home is in Terre Haute, Ind., "it beats the hell out of me. All that quiet."

Like Fighting in a Tomb
For explained the corporal (whose No. 1 possession these days is Sgt. Joe Louis' autograph) they don't let the crowds' holler during the rounds. Between rounds, the fans are permitted a little genteel hand-clapping—nothing boisterous, you understand.

"Just like fighting in a mausoleum," said Hamilton, who likes to hear some noise even if it is someone shouting for his opponent to "kill the bum."

Could Hear Pin Drop
"Why," said the corporal, "you could hear a pin drop. It's spooky, that's what it is. It ain't natural."

The corporal recalled that at his fight the night before, some American GI Joe had walked in after the usual announcement had been made by the British fight authorities—an announcement warning against any unseemly disturbance. Hamilton landed a good solid blow to his opponent's proboscis. The newly-arrived GI Joe expressed his appreciation.

"But him in the puss," he shouted to Hamilton. "Molder the oom." The British section of the audience looked at him in surprise. The referee, who in his voice, stands outside the ring—stopped the fight.

They Throw the GI Out
"Then," continued the fighting corporal, "the referee said to somebody, 'Please eject that spectator.' And they wouldn't let us continue the fight until they had escorted that GI out of the joint."

Another time
"I was in there punching," said Hamilton, "and the referee stopped us. I was wearing white trunks, and he said to me, 'White Trunks, you're hitting him with rabbit punches.' I said that I wasn't. He said, 'You've been a bit easy on there, White Trunks. Please resist.' Then we continued the scrap."

"Halt, Halt," He Says
When the referee stops the fight, either to caution the fighters or quiet some fight fan, he is bold enough to make some noise, he says. "Halt, halt," said Hamilton.

But, the corporal added, with all fairness, the British referees—even if they are out of the ring—are good officials.

"It's just a little right in the fight," he said, "even an amateur fight. I'd feel better with some good old boxing."

Joe Scala featured at the plate for St. Monica's with three doubles and a single. Palogello, Grimen and Mills each had two hits.

Central Press Correspondent

FORT MCLELLAN, Ala., May 23.—Teammates in the Southern baseball league, and later with the Cleveland Indians, Pts. Al Milnar of the Browns and Roy Weatherly of the Yankees are buddies in this infantry replacement training center.

Whenever they can get together the baseball situation and each confidently picks his team to win the American league flag.

The Yankees, with sound pitching and Joe McCarthy at the helm, are the team to beat this year, says Weatherly. "The team finishing ahead of the Yanks will win the pennant, but I don't think anyone will finish ahead of them."

Both With Pelicans
"The Browns have balance, good pitching and hitting, and will show the league plenty to win the pennant," Milnar predicts.

Weatherly and Milnar played for New Orleans in the Southern league for several seasons. Milnar then went to Milwaukee before going to Cleveland, while Weatherly went up to the Indians and became a hard-hitting outfielder. Milnar was sold last season to the Yankees.

Having laid aside their gloves and bats for the duration, Milnar, a stocky 6 foot 1 inch pitcher, and Weatherly, a chunky 5 foot 7 inch centerfielder, are working hard to prepare themselves for their army careers.

Leo Durocher May
Play For Dodgers

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS)—Leo Durocher, verbose and redoubtable manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, may don a glove and an ankle on the shortstop position when the Dodgers oppose the Giants at Ebbets field in what he calls an endeavor to strengthen his team.

Durocher, voicing sarcastic displeasure over the showing of his flock in recent games, said, in effect, that despite his ailing thumb, extra poundage and lack of much physical activity he could do much better than some of his charges.

"I can't possibly be any worse," he declared, "I can do better just standing out there than we've been doing."

Fair Or Foul

BY LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 23.—A new threat to Pensive's three-year-old supremacy stands out today in the glistering bay hide of who goes there.

By virtue of his victory in the Withers mile on Saturday, to the utter amazement of 40,000 onlookers, the colt from George D. Widener's barns has turned the Belmont stakes of June 3 into a horse race and lifted it out of the drabness of a seeming cake-walk for Pensive as he seeks to complete the triple crown.

Pensive beat most of the best three-year-olds in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. Under the sudden turn of events over the week-end, the Belmont now looks like a tussle among Pensive, who Goes There and Platter and it will have an element of competition lacking before.

Three Good Bets
Those three threaten to lead all the rest, with their order of finish subject to change between the starting gates and the payoff wire.

Perhaps Ben Jones, Pensive's trainer, smelled a rat—that big day one named Who Goes There—as he sat in his box all week at Belmont with his white hat pulled down over his eyes, and indecisively refused to say whether his colt would be entered for the Withers. He could figure the Withers field pretty well on past performances against Pensive, but against horses Pensive had taken care of but there were a few that might come to life in a mile stake off Pensive, which like little more distance.

Great Colt
Who Goes There looked like a colt which would run for awhile, but he had one glaring demerit against his recent record. That was his defeat of May 10 when, at odds-on, he finished sixth in a race won by Boy Knight, with Hoodood second and Boundine Home third.

Few gave him a second thought as he came off that race to face those three colts again, plus such warring standouts as Broadcloth by Jimmy and Rodney Stone in a field of 13.

Proving no doubt that figures sometimes lie when applied to past performances on the race track, he busted out of there to be on the lead by a half length at the quarter and by three at the finish of the mile, beating the rest in this order: By Jimmy, Boy Knight, Boundine Home, Ben Reish, Hoodood, Kaytie, Broadcloth, Rodney Stone, Ravenala, Bellwether, Diavolaw and Broad Gun.

Wasn't Extended
Who Goes There won without being extended. He finished fresh and seemed merely to coast through the stretch to be clocked in a slow 1:38. To the open-mouthed amazement of the majority he paid $40.90.

Thus in less than two minutes time he was transformed from a

Germans Cannot Cope With Yanks

Angry Colonel-Leads Charge At Germans, Soldier Uses Baby Buggy

By LARRY NEWMAN (U.S.S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN FIFTH ARMY FORCES IN FONDI, May 20.—(Delayed)—An American colonel leading his Doughboys into Fondi with a bamboo cane under his arm got a hot reception today. A shell knocked his helmet off.

The colonel, Lt. Col. Walter B. Eager, Macon, Ga., got "sorer than hell" and moved up the Germans in less than half an hour.

He roared like a lion, as he led the way, shouting:

"Come on Doughboys, vindicate me!"

The men surged into the town and killed all but three of the German defenders. These three were the only ones who didn't elect to fight it out in the open, sniping until out of ammunition.

Three correspondents, who "permitted" the infantry to take the town, watched from about 50 yards off as a tank knocked out a German self-propelled gun which was giving the boys a lot of trouble. We also watched a platoon of men circle and capture a pillbox which was planted behind an altar overlooking the Apian way.

Look Pictures

We watched a rifleman pause between shots to snap a picture of the knocked out self-propelled gun. After taking the photo he calmly reloaded and took up his work again.

The soldier was Sgt. Vernon Marshall, of Chicago, Ill., who said:

"I just want a few pictures to show the boys back home I really saw a little action."

Sgt. Martin McCue, Long Island City, N. Y., was right behind Col. Eager going into "his Hitler line town. He got the man who fired the shell that took off the colonel's helmet.

When the tank knocked the German gun out five Nazis tried to get away. McCue shot one and the other four decided to surrender.

The speed with which the Germans left Fondi was indicated by the house in which we found one shoe and a pair of pajamas. Sgt. Robert J. Brown of Newark, N. J., said:

"I'll bet that Jerry looks funnier than hell galloping over these mountains with one bare foot."

Use Baby Buggy

Pvt. Ed Zink, of North Canton, Ohio, came running down the road. Zink is news production man for his regiment. Along with the correspondents he has "taken" Santa Maria, Spigno, Fontia, Gaeta, Itri, and now Fondi, Zink said.

"I've got a wov of a feature here about one of our boys who's coming up the road here. He's got a mortar in a baby buggy."

Sure enough down the road came Pvt. Felix Purzycki, (13 Green St.) Camden, N. J., wheeling his mortar to the front in the most ancient baby buggy I ever saw.

The sight brought a smile, and then put a lump in your throat. Purzycki said:

"I ought to be out wheeling a baby buggy with a kid in it instead of this, but I'll take care of that later."

The only thing you can think of at a time like this is:

"Thank God I'm an American who can fight, laugh, and dream at the same time."

The two lower pockets of the army's newest combat uniform hold nine grenades each. Formerly these grenades had to be strapped on with tape or carried in sacks.

Italian-Yugoslav Partisans Praised

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS Italy, May 23.—(INS)—General Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander gave official credit to Italian and Yugoslav partisans today for pinning down six German divisions in northern Italy.

In a communique concerning partisan activity Gen. Alexander said:

"From 25 German divisions now in Italy, six have been dispatched to the northern regions, either to fight against Italian patriots or to meet Yugoslav Partisans on the border of Venezia-Giulia Giulia."

The danger of further development in the battle on the Italian liberation front which may arise from one minute to another, prevents the Germans from using these six divisions against the Fifth and Eighth Anglo-American armies.

Sailor Sentenced For Striking Woman

PITTSBURGH, May 23.—(INS)—Bernard I. Vid, Dorothy, Pa., sailor who slugged the chief woman clerk of Draft Board No. 2 at Latrobe because he was inducted into the Navy, was sentenced on Monday to one year in jail by Federal Judge F. P. Schoolmaker.

The attack occurred January 3 when Vid came home on furlough after completing his "boot" training. Miss Grace Keltz said the sailor simply walked in and knocked her out with an uppercut.

Vid pleaded guilty to a charge of hindering the administration of the Selective Service Act and explained that he was worried because his wife had undergone an operation at the time of his induction and there was no one to look after their baby.

Arranged under the sponsorship of several medical and surgical associations, the program will deal with the medical problems of wounded and discharged service men.

DIVORCE GRANTED

A divorce was granted Monday by Judge W. Walter Bralman to William Henry Metlin from Delphia Susan Metlin.

BIDDING SHARP

Now and then a property is sold by the county commissioners which brings much more than is anticipated. Usually two persons are determined to get the property and keep raising. Such a case happened on Monday when a lot on Johns street was up for sale. Two families were after the lot and the bidding went from $50 to $300.

One Little Detail Has Been Overlooked

Japan To Dispose Of U. S. Navy But How, Is Big Question

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—Now the Japs have got it all figured out—the United States Navy is going to be taken to pieces, and by Japan, no less.

A Tokyo broadcast picked up in London today described a detailed "plan" to disperse American Naval power "after victory." Under its terms, all American naval vessels and ocean liners will be confiscated together with aircraft, arms and ammunition, while Naval stations, yards, schools, training establishments and private shipyard facilities will be destroyed.

Finally, the United States will be kept under "strict supervision" for at least 10 years after the war and perhaps indefinitely.

The Tokyo broadcaster overlooked only one angle.

He didn't say how.

CLAIM U. S. WOMEN RUN SUPPLY PLANES

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—It's a woman's war, at least according to Joe Goebbels.

German propaganda sources said today that British and American women pilots have made their appearance in the Italian theater of war, and that they have been seen in Bari. The Nazis said the women are serving in the Allied supply traffic.

Cheap grain shops for the poor are being opened in India.
